Coaching for greater resilience at home and work

Seminar Outline

As people we care for grow, change and develop we find there is a need for a process that supports, guides and challenges them in a way that enhances their resilience to obstacles, transitions, and setbacks in life. If you are someone who is passionate about the quality of care you give to those people in your life who are important to you, such as your children, your ageing loved ones or your employees, then this seminar is for you. It will provide you with ample opportunities to learn and apply the LIFE coaching process to a wide range of family and work situations, whilst at the same time embarking on a journey of discovery, renewed energy and resilience for yourself.

The seminar will cover the following areas:

Understanding resilience – Research shows that there are a number of crucial factors in developing resilience which include: managing stress well; connecting with others; and demonstrating a high level of emotional intelligence. These factors will be explored and applied to practical coaching scenarios both at home and work, such as helping your child deal with bullying, moving with children, relationship breakups, support during loss and grief, separation and divorce, starting school, HSC stress, coping with a growing workload, dealing with mental health issues in the family, delivering presentations successfully, coping with technological changes, juggling work and family, sorting out conflict with friends, family and work colleagues, dealing with failure, and much more.

The LIFE coaching process – Coaching is a process that guides and supports individuals and groups in achieving their potential and goals in life. The LIFE coaching process has been developed especially for people who are already in an established relationship and have ample opportunities to provide support to build resilience for those they interact with on a regular basis, such as parents/carers and their children/loved ones and managers and their team members. You will learn the LIFE coaching process which focuses on active listening, powerful questioning and accountable actioning for building greater resilience and experience it applied to many situations both at home and work.

LIFE coaching scenarios – You will have the opportunity to apply your coaching skills to any situation that requires greater resilience and experience the tremendous benefits, such as heightened self awareness, more confidence, greater sense of accountability, quality decisions, better relationships, clarity, improved parenting skills, better career progression, stronger leadership skills, increased work productivity, less anxiety, more constructive use of energy, increased empathy in your caring role, and happiness!

Participants will receive a workbook with the content of the seminar as well as tip sheets on topics, such as Coping with a growing workload, Dealing with a difficult boss, Delivering smooth presentations, Dealing with bullying at work, Helping a depressed or anxious family member, Dealing with cultural transitions at work, Coping with grief, Strategies to cope with a travelling spouse, Moving with children, Helping with HSC stress, The new parent, Teaching children to be grateful, Peer pressure and influence, dealing with drugs, starting school, How to stop screaming at the kids, Sibling rivalry, Dealing with bullying at school, Separation and divorce, Single parenting, Step families, and Cross cultural families. In addition, a booklist and contacts page will be included providing useful tools to help employees manage their work/life/family commitments.
